Dear Stubby:

I sincerely appreciate your understanding of the problem we discussed recently and I am happy to advise that arrangements have been made for the young man to go ahead with his marriage plans and then return here with his bride. After allowing a reasonable time to cover the making of necessary arrangements after his return to this country, we will arrange for termination of his association with us but will of course be helpful to him in any appropriate way in finding new employment elsewhere.

As I told you, this was a tough decision for me to make and I regret it could not have been more favorable.

Faithfully yours,

Allen W. Dulles
Director
